

“Not Going Anywhere Tonight”

It's been a rough year
But he'll never know
She don't know where he's been and it doesn't even matter
What matters is he's home

She's afraid he'll be in a hurry
After he showers in the morning and eats
It's ok to turn out the lights
Not goin anywhere tonight
He's not goin anywhere tonight

He looks in her eyes
She sometimes looks back
Cause he understands her and she is ashamed
Even though she wants to tell him she can't

How last time he left she wasn't alone
With her good Christian values in the back of her head
But she knows if she keeps them he'd never come back
And she'd lose everything over losing that

She's afraid he'll be in a hurry
After he showers in the morning and eats
It's ok to turn out the lights
Not goin anywhere tonight
He's not goin anywhere tonight

She knows he's always a wanderer
She'll never make him change
And though he's always been fond of her
He'll never feel the same

He gets in his truck
And kisses her goodbye
As he pulls out the driveway, says it's always nice to see her
But she won't let him see her cry

She's afraid he won't be in a hurry
Or will find something else along the way
But she'll be there when he needs her to turn out the lights.
Not going anywhere tonight
She's not going anywhere tonight
I'm not going anywhere tonight
